Get Cash for Your Clutter This Spring

Success Coach Jennifer DeGrandchamp (Livingston ERN) recently assisted an employee with a home declutter plan. They used the resource 40 Bags in 40 Days (ask your Success Coach for details). When people declutter, they often feel more at peace with their surroundings. Have you not used an item for over a year? Could you use some cash for things you need now? Use these tips to get cash for your clutter:

Clothing and furniture consignment. Look for shops near you that resell items.

Sell on eBay or Craigslist. Clean out the basement, attic and garage. Toys, baby gear, tools, furniture and antiques are big sellers.

Garage sale. Advertise your sale on Craigslist. Use balloons and signs. Ask neighbors to participate the same day to draw shoppers.

Recycle metal. Check for a local recycling center to cash in on old metal you don't use.

Virtual yard sale on Facebook. Search Facebook with the terms "garage sale," "yard sale" or "resale" along with the names of surrounding cities to find virtual resale groups.

Games and smartphones. Stores like GameStop accept used video games and electronics. You can use in store credit for future gifts. Gazelle.com is a competitive option for getting cash for used smartphones.

Donate for a tax break. What doesn't sell can be taken to stores like Goodwill or request a pick up. Get a donation slip for a tax deduction. Source: Michigan ERN

Success Coach Helps Locate Teen Counseling

Success Coach Artie Estridge (Michiana Bridges ERN) helped locate affordable teen counseling for an employee. This in turn relieved the employee's stress. Don't wait until the present issues develop into major problems leading to poor choices and negative consequences. Teens can develop a healthy outlook with an improved self-image and hope for the future. Their relationships, school performance, and attitudes can improve. If your child has exhibited any of the behaviors below, teen counseling can help:

- ◆ anxious, worried
- ◆ depressed, sad
- ◆ bored, lonely
- ◆ feeling a victim of bullying
- ◆ emotionally/physically violent
- ◆ starting arguments
- ◆ destroying property
- ◆ lying, avoiding responsibility
- ◆ stealing, shoplifting
- ◆ being promiscuous
- ◆ drinking or taking drugs
- ◆ cutting, self-mutilating
- ◆ having angry outbursts
- ◆ withdrawing, secretive
- ◆ school problems, poor grades
- ◆ disrespect for authority
- ◆ missing school

Don't hesitate to call your Success Coach to help locate an affordable and confidential referral.
